

Camp Jabulani

Camp Jabulani is located within the private Kapama Game Reserve in Hoedspruit, just 5 hours from Johannesburg. This is within the Limpopo Province - South Africa's northernmost province which borders Mozambique, Zimbabwe and Botswana.

The private game reserve, situated in Limpopo Province, covers prime big-game territory and has successfully combined the wilderness of the bush with the comforts of five-star hospitality and facilities.

The reserve enjoys panoramic views of the nearby Drakensberg mountain range, and is only 40km from the Kruger National Park. It is also central to the scenic areas of Mpumalanga.

As a result of a successful animal relocation programme, the reserve now supports a wide variety of game including elephant, buffalo, rhinoceros, giraffe, zebra, blue wildebeest, waterbuck, kudu and many other species of antelope. Predators include lion, leopard, cheetah, spotted hyena and many smaller species.

The reserve has gained a reputation as a centre for wildlife management and research. Although tourism features prominently in the reserve, it is the aim of the owner and her team to maintain a balance between the demands of tourism and conservation.

Bird watching is most rewarding and more than 350 species have been recorded.

The vegetation is typical of the lowveld: mixed woodland, which is dominated by a variety of acacia and bushwillow species, but also includes tamboti, marula, silver clusterleaf and jackalberry.

Each of the six luxury suites is remote and private. With every creature comfort met, the suites offer the optimum environment in which to relax and recharge. Massive wooden sliding doors present interiors which are a pure translation of style, comfort, elegance and appreciation of the environment.

Pure cotton sheets, massive stone tubs, an outdoor glass-enclosed shower, a fire-place with a separate lounge area, and a private plunge pool complement each of the rooms. Suites are also equipped with a mini-bar, safe, hairdryer and electric blanket. Comfort is ensured by the 24 hour temperature control and overhead ceiling fan.

During the day the "walls" of the suites are rolled away to bring the bush just that bit closer. In the evenings, cozy lighting, a blazing fire and a welcoming bed draw to a perfect close another day in Africa.

A dedicated butler completes the experience by personally responding to the needs of the guest.

2009 will see the addition of another two units - specifically designed for the family traveler (as well as a specially designed children's programme). These units may be booked exclusively by a group, or individually by individual travelers. The site chosen for these suites is private, and also along the dry-river's edge. Further details will be released in due course.
